We were late hence the write up, elrave and paparazzi were after us (where the justice). So after the better half had been to the loo we were off. Down the road and up a steep footpath (wouldn't of had that in cambridge!!). We then ran through a wooded area with a check at the lady Anne's Folley, I checked out and found a check back, and a nice tree!!

Off we went back to the check then through a no entry sign which the hare seems to have pulled out of the ground and was hiding???

Across a metal gate and into the grounds Shuttleworth Hall, then we meet a road, down the road and back up another hill and into the wooded area. Lots of checks (LOTS) other signs are also available!!

More lovely woods and shade, it was getting hot. Passed stables, more checks and I went wrong, somehow managed to get back on the out trail (Pedro's fault) so a bit of back tracking and stopping Unmentionable from doing the trail again and we were back on trail. I spotted Antar, so off I ran to catch up, "I thought I was last" he exclaimed ( with a little sadness), I ran on and caught the hare and a gaggle of runners generally bimbling and gas bagging. Passed them, then I was up the front (So I thought), but each check I found was marked, so on I went, I came out of the woods and the check had an arrow made of twigs so off I went and picked up the out trail by the stables. Down the road past the cricket club and back to the pub. But I was the only one there. Something is amiss I thought, so I walked past the pub and saw Bastard and Bengazi coming out of a footpath. So not to be called a SCB I set off back tracking, after about 300 yards I spot a gaggle of hashers behind a car, a bloody beer stop I thought to myself. Spurred on by a cold beer I pick up the pace and hoped the walkers hadn't had it all. All's well that ends well, still lots of beer and crisps and a visit to a medieval church and back to the pub. In summary, a great location, great run, great weather, great pub. Thank you hares, great job (maybe Cambridgeshire next time).
